TO STORE
CRUDE OIL
Union Company to Build 75,000
Plant.

TANK SHIPS
HERE IN JULY

Will Bring 28,000 Barrels of the California Product to Substitute for Coal.

Negotiations are on which will soon result in the expansion of the business of the Union Oil Company of California, a concern that promises Honolulu a fine plant for the storage of crude oil to be used on the plantations as a substitute for coal. John Baker Jr., of San Francisco, manager for the Union Oil Company, arrived yesterday, and his visit may mark the beginning of the construction work.

The outcome of the negotiations will mean the erection of a $75,000 plant located within easy distance of the wharves, and will include the laying of a pipe line from the wharves to the tanks. The ships of the company, which will form a line between San Francisco and Honolulu, will discharge into receiving tanks whence the product will be piped through to the main plant.

The first consignment of the crude oil will arrive about July 1st, followed soon after by the second cargo, both aggregating 28,000 barrels. The Union Oil Company has contract with plantations on the island of Oahu. It is figured that a heavy saving will be made, as coal is one of the largest expenses connected with plantation work.

The company also has a contract to supply the Spreckelsville plantations on Maui, and a plant is soon to be erected there to receive the oil. Part of the material for the plant is believed to now be on the ground. The oil will be stored in a central place and piped to various plantations when desired.
